THE RETIRED BURGLAR RELATES HIS MOST SINGULAR EXPERIENCE.

He Had an Elegant Lay Out of Wedding Presents at His Mercy When He Made an Unfortunate Step—in the End He Made a Contribution to the Collection.

"In a house that I was looking over in a town up the state one night," said the retired burglar, "I came across something that I never struck but that once in all my experience, strange as it may seem, and that was a lot of wedding presents, all just as they were arranged for display. When I turned my lamp into the room, I wished I had brought a good deal of it that wouldn't have been of any earthly use to me, but it seemed a pity to leave any of it behind. But if I couldn't carry it all off, I could have the fun of picking, and I started to look the things over. They were arranged on tables and chairs, and on the floor around on three sides of the room; on the side opposite to the side that I had come in at, and on the sides to the right and left; running around those three sides in a sort of irregular order. On the side where I was there were a few chairs. I thought I'd start in on the left and work around to the right, and I started from the door and had gone about three steps when I went down through the floor, as it seemed to me, but what I had really done was to step down through an open register. I suppose somebody must have dropped something down through it and have taken it out to get it and forgot to put it back.

"There was a wire screen under the register over the pipe opening to keep things from dropping down the pipe, but it was very fine light wire, and it didn't stop me at all; I just slid down into the pipe, pushing that along under my feet. When I dropped into the pipe, I had been facing to the left; in some way as I went down I got skewed around so that when I got down as far as I did go I was facing to the front; that is, toward the center of the room. The pipe didn't go straight down, but with a curve. I had thrown up my hands as I went down, and I suppose I might have gone plumb to the furnace if I hadn't clutched at the edge of the register opening and hung on. A minute before I was going to take my pick of a reward, now where was I?

"I had started across the room carrying my toolbox in one hand and my lamp in the other. The shock when I went down had shaken the bag out of my hand, but I had held on to my lamp, though it was lying on its side now, with my fingers clutching through the handle. The falling of the toolbox and the striking of the lamp on the floor and the scraping of the wire gauze down through the tin pipe must have made all together a good deal of noise, and I expected every minute to hear somebody moving about up stairs and coming down to haul me out, but no body did come, and I set my lamp up straight, and after I'd waited a minute or two more I started to see if I could haul myself out.

"As I lay in the pipe my head was below the level of the floor; by a great effort I could raise myself so that the upper half of my head was above the opening, but no higher; there was no room for play; when I got that high, I found myself with my elbows close to my body and fairly wedged into the pipe; I couldn't get any higher.

"I let myself down again, and after awhile I pulled myself up again, and held on by one hand and held up the lamp and swung it round on the things. Then I let myself down again, and wondered what I was going to do. It wasn't only uncomfortable there in the position I was in, it was mighty hot and unpleasant every way. If I let go, I didn't know but that I'd slide down against the furnace, and, of course, I couldn't stand it for an indefinite length of time, and when I'd been in the pipe I should imagine about two hours, I made up my mind that I wouldn't try to stand it any longer; I'd got to come out some time, and I might just as well come out then; in fact, better, for while the chances of my getting away at all were mighty small, they would be better at night than they would be in the daytime.

"So I made up my mind to kick on the pipe and wade up the house and have the thing settled. So I kicked once, twice, and then I kicked again; and by snakes! I kicked the pipe open at my feet. There was a joint there, and I'd kicked it apart, and the sections I was in sagged down with my weight, and I slid out on the cellar floor. The sagging down of that part of the pipe detached it from the part above and it fell on the cellar floor alongside of me. That made noise enough to wake everybody up there couldn't be any doubt about that.

"I went out by the same cellar window that I came in by. It was the first and only such lot of spirit that I ever struck, and I never got a thing out of it; in fact, I added something to it myself—a set of tools and a dark lantern."

RIGHTS OF BELLIGERENTS

Now that the Senate has by a practically unanimous vote adopted a resolution recognizing the Cubans as belligerents, and the House cannot, in view of the sentiment of the public on the subject, well afford to do otherwise, the question is being asked, What advantages will accrue to the Cubans from the action of the United States? Justice Harlan of the Supreme Court gave an opinion on this subject which has long been accepted as correct, in which he said:

"The insurgents gain the great advantage of a recognized status, when belligerent rights are accorded, and the opportunity to employ commissioned cruisers at sea and to exert all powers known to maritime warfare, with the sanction of foreign nations. They can obtain loans abroad, and military and naval materials, as against everything but the neutrality law. Their flags and commissions are acknowledged, their revenue laws are respected and they acquire quasi-political recognition."

The direct advantages which may accrue to the United States under international law are of no great value. Halleck, a leading authority, says there is no law or regulation which forbids any person or Government, whether the political designation be real or assumed, from purchasing arms from citizens of the United States and shipping them at the risk of the purchaser. Neutrals may establish themselves for the purposes of trade in ports convenient to either belligerent, and may sell and transport to either such articles as they may wish to buy. The belligerent cannot send out privateers from neutral ports, but neutrals in their own country may sell to belligerents whatever they choose to buy. The Cubans may purchase vessels, arms and other war material in the United States, but the United States must not furnish soldiers with the arms, nor sailors to man the ships, nor permit military or naval expeditions to be organized in its territory by either Spain or Cuba.

It is claimed that Cuba, the insurgent, is recognized as belligerent, can dispose of fifteen or twenty millions of bonds in the United States and purchase arms and ships with the proceeds, without violating the law. In this way the Cuban cause will be materially benefited, and if such rights are accorded it, the independence of the island will be almost assured. The sympathies of the American people are with the insurgents and it is said that thousands of able-bodied men on the Atlantic seaboard are ready to enlist under the Cuban flag, the moment it is recognized as the emblem of a belligerent power by the United States Government.

THE TITLE TO WADSWORTH INVOLVED IN A SUIT.

Further information relative to the suit brought in the United States District Court at Carson by United States Attorney General Harmon and District Attorney Jones in behalf of the United States has been received. Among the defendants are the Southern Pacific Company, the Central Pacific Company, the Metropolitan Trust Company of New York, mortgagees of the Southern Pacific Company, the Pacific Wood, Lumber and Plume Company of Nevada, the Pacific Improvement Company of California and some sixty individuals. Nearly the entire town of Wadsworth, including the railroad property, is involved, and the sixty individuals made defendants in the case are those who purchased lands from the Southern Pacific Company.

The complaint alleges that the railroad company has for years illegally occupied those lands. It took possession under the Act of 1862, amended in 1864, and the complaint alleges that at the time the railroad took possession the lands in dispute were already occupied by William O'Neil, Alexander O'Neil, Isaac R. Lebo and Orlieo Wemer. It further alleges that the patents to the Southern Pacific Company are null and void, the lands being reserved from the effects of the land grants of 1862.

This case is said to be the most important of the kind ever brought in the State of Nevada. The property is valued at $500,000, and the railroad company and the individual defendants have occupied the property for many years. It appears that a case in which the Government is interested is never barred by the statute of limitations. It will be a contest between the United States Government as plaintiff and the New York Trust Company, as mortgagee, as defendants. As the individuals who purchased lots or lands of the railroad company doubtless have warranty deeds from the company, they will be in the position of the woman who looked on while her husband and the bear were fighting, not caring much which of the combatants was on top.

THE "POLITICAL SITUATION" EAST.

In nearly all the States west of the Missouri a large majority of the people are absolutely committed to the policy of relieving the country from the gold standard incubus. In the East it is different, and a paper which has been taking a comprehensive view of the situation has the following on the subject:

Nobody to-day can say what makes a Republican or a Democrat. The parties are both divided on the silver question.

There are opponents in both parties of the policy of retiring the greenbacks. There are Democrats who stand by protection and Republicans who believe that a return to McKinleyism would be fatal. There is no order or discipline in the ranks of either party. Neither, one, at the present writing, can raise a standard on which a single positive principle of practical legislation, expressed in definite terms and not in meaningless generalizations, could be emblazoned without seeing whole platoons of its supporters march off as deserters to the enemy.

It is only a few months until the National conventions of the old parties meet, and only eight months until the Presidential election, yet neither the Republicans nor the Democrats have outlined a policy for the campaign. The tariff cannot, in view of the action of sixteen Republican Senators, be made the exclusive issue, as that would leave every State west of the Mississippi out of the Republican column. The delegates from a majority of those States in the old party conventions will insist on having a free silver plank in the platform, while the Eastern delegates will contend for a declaration in favor of gold. The two elements are as antagonistic as water and oil and tariff schedules will not neutralize the difference existing between them, nor will they be satisfied with such straddling resolutions as were adopted at Minneapolis and Chicago in 1892. The voters this year want straight financial planks, not a jumble of words that can be construed to mean gold in the East and silver in the West and South.

"Free silver or no protection," says the Elko Independent, "is the cry of the Republicans of all the mining States, except Nevada. Here they would swallow John Sherman, single standard and all, rather than march under the independent silver banner."

As a gratifying result of the silver campaign, the Appeal notes that the Republican party has been smoked out of its hole and compelled to openly take a stand for Wall street and announce that it is for gold and gold only.

THOMAS FITCH.

His Proposed Silver Plank Analyzed.

Editor JOURNAL: Thomas Fitch, a former resident and ex-Congressman of Nevada, has quite a lengthy communication to the New York Tribune of February 26, 1896, in which he offers the following plank as a concession by the gold men of the east to the silver Republicans of the west:

PROPOSED SILVER PLANK FOR REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The motto of the Republican party has always been "In essentials unity, in non-essentials liberty and in all things harmony." Upon questions of finance, currency and coinage the divergence of opinion among Republicans is so great and general that it would be both unjust and inexpedient for the majority in this convention to formulate its views upon them in this platform, and thus make adherence to them a test of party fealty. We therefore remit all such questions to the people of the Congress districts for determination, pledging the nominees of this Convention not to interpose the Executive veto, or the power and patronage of the Executive office, to defeat any legislation with respect to coinage that may be supported by a majority of the Republican Representatives and Senators in Congress.

If the Republican National Convention should adopt a plank on finance like the foregoing it is very doubtful whether the Republicans of Nevada would have the courage to nominate any Presidential electors. Eighty per cent of the Republican Congressmen are elected from States where the Republican party is opposed to free coinage of silver, and if the Executive was pledged to sanction financial legislation only when it received a majority vote of the Republicans of both branches of Congress, then it would be an utter impossibility to get any financial legislation, except what the plutocrats would dictate.

Mr. Fitch, when in his prime, was one of the best orators ever heard on the Pacific Coast. His orations have held large audiences spellbound, but it is very doubtful whether, with all his magnetic powers of oratory, he could hypnotize the voters of the intermountain States for a sufficient length of time to get them to vote for a gold bug candidate nominated on a platform with such a ridiculous plank.

The Ice Palace Good for Next Winter—Winter Industries Thriving and Paying Regular.

EDITOR JOURNAL:—There is probably no place on the coast which within the last few months has enjoyed a greater amount of advertising than Truckee on account of the Ice Carnival, and justly so, although it was of short duration. The superlatives assert that because of the building of the palace the elements objected to creating snow and ice, while Colonel C. F. MacGlashan and M. E. Burckhalter, the leading men of the gigantic enterprise, take a more philosophical view of the matter. The framework of the magnificent structure, including the toboggan slide inclosure, still stands and will be as good for the next season as it might have been for the present one. This town gives the broad lie to the cry of hard times heard everywhere.

The usual winter industries are unimpaired and the pay days are "as regular as clockwork."

During the past ten days a good many entertainments have taken place, of which the bal masque given on the 21st by and for the benefit of the local brass band deserves special mention. Truckee loves music, and so does nearly every other place, but Truckee adds substantial support to the mere sentiment. As a result the ball was a great success in every respect, the only drawback to the extreme enjoyment of the participants being the limited capacity of Hurd's Hall. How different from some other towns that the writer can vouch for! People there utterly disregard the fact that it takes time and money to achieve even a superficial knowledge of music. Another proof of how quickly people here will respond to the maintenance of their band was furnished a few days ago when upon the occasion of installing a new Red Men's lodge the band was called on to furnish music. In less than twenty minutes Frank McIntosh collected $24 for them.

S. W. Peck and Arthur Donnelly, both of Reno, helped conspicuously at an open air concert.

A new industry has been started here in the shape of the Sierra Mountain Brewery. Louis Kiehofer, formerly with the Becker Brewing Company of Reno, is the proprietor. He furnishes nearly all the Truckee retailers, but his limited brewing capacity is at present unequal to the demand by outside towns. The enlargement of the building is already in progress.

General C. C. Downing was here a day or two ago in the interest of his "Reno Addition." To judge from the handshakes he received, and the broad smiles overspreading his countenance, he must have been successful in his mission.

Snow began to fall at an early hour this morning, covering the ground to a depth of 3 inches. At this time, 7 p. m., it is still coming down with all indications of an extensive storm.

The Sensations That Are Superinduced by Its Rising and Falling.

A dim sunlight strikes us in the balloon. Suddenly we realize we are in bright sunshine again, with fleecy white clouds below us and a deep blue sky
above. Look at the shadow of the balloon on the clouds! See the light prismatic colors like a halo around the shadow of the car. Here we are all alone, in perfect silence, in the depths of a great abyss—massive clouds towering up on all sides, a snowy white mass below. But no sign of earth—no sign of anything human. Not a sound, not a sign of life! What peace! What bliss!
Horror! What's that report? The balloon must have burst. Oh, nonsense!
Keep still! It's only a fold of the stuff nipped by the netting! suddenly released; that's all.

Well, we are falling, for see the bits of paper apparently ascending. And we must take care, for the coldness and dampness of this cloud will cause the gas to contract, and we shall fall rapidly. So get a bag of ballast ready, for we are already in the darkness of the cloud. Now the gas bag shrinks and withers, and the loose folds rustle together, and it gets darker. You can feel the breeze blowing upward against your face or hand held over the edge of the car. Well, that's not to be wondered at, for remember we are falling, say 1,000 feet a minute, which is the same thing as if we were going along ten miles an hour sitting in a dogcart.
Not quite the same, you say—you'd sooner be in the cart? Well, perhaps if the horse were going straight at a wall,
without the possibility of being able to stop him, you would think otherwise.
But look! There is the earth again; so out with your ballast. Go on! Pour out plenty; there's no good economizing.—
Blackwood's Magazine.

Mark Twain's Latest.
The authorship of "The Personal Recollections of Joan of Arc," which has been appearing serially in Harper's Monthly during the last year, and which has been credited to nearly every well known author, is finally determined. Volume 6 of the National Cyclopedia of American Biography, a work of such accuracy that it may be considered official, contains a new biography of Mr. Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) which enumerates this work in the list of his publications.

Good Digestion.
A good digestion is as truly obligatory as a good conscience; pure blood is as truly a part of manhood as a pure faith; a vigorous brain as necessary to useful living as a vigorous will,
which it often helps to make vigorous,
and a well ordered skin is the first condition of that cleanliness which is next to goodness.—L. W. Beecher.

The Usual Way.
Fuddy—You know there is no rule
without an exception.
Wooty—I believe you. I never lay down a rule at the store but most of the clerks take exception to it.—Boston

How Treasure Is Transferred in China.
We have heard much of the diverting of public treasure to private gain by Chinese officials of all ranks, and the evidence of it in the failure of the Chinese army and navy to be ready for the inevitable struggle with Japan is too recent and convincing to be disputed, but on the other hand we can only wonder at the power of this law of responsibility which, in such a land, enables the remotest province to transport its dues
to Peking in solid silver, by the simplest means, without loss by the way and without the protection of a single soldier. Nothing impresses one more with the absoluteness of this power as applied to transportation than to meet a line of pack mules, horses, or camels, loaded with silver bullion. The silver is usually confined in rough logs of wood that have been split, hollowed out, and then bound together, and each load is marked with a little flag of imperial yellow, stating the amount and destination. That is all the protection there is except the ordinary drivers, who carry
no weapons, and are attended by no guard. In what other land on the face of the globe could the same be done?

SHOOTING STARS.

How These Odd and Erratic Baby Planets
Blaze and Darken.

The shooting star is an oddity of the very oddest kind. It is a world of itself
—a miniature planet—probably not larger than the paper mache globe on your study table or the rubber ball with which the schoolboys play "three cornered cat," but it is a world just the same. These baby planets are not always round, as planets are generally supposed to be, but are known to be in all sorts of queer shapes. Some are square, others octagonal; some irregular and many cornered, while one is occasionally met with which is smooth
as a brick or a cement paving stone.
Probably you have never heard of a man (or woman either, for that matter)
"meeting with" a shooting star in any of his wanderings. Let us see how such a thing might be possible.

The shooting star is originally a mi-niture world, revolving around the sun
with as much regularity as the earth, Jupiter, Venus or Mars. It keeps up this unerring flight thousands or even millions of years. Finally it reaches the limit of its existence. Suddenly and perhaps without any visible cause it shoots off at a tangent. It is now a "shooting star." Formerly it was a world, but even now it is not bright as other stars are. Let us see what will cause it to "flame up like a gigantic torch in the heavens." This particular body that we are talking about shot off from its orbit in the direction of our earth. Its speed is not less than 20 miles a second, probably five times that.

In the great outer sea of space it encounter no resistance to its headlong flight. But wait. It is nearing the envelope of atmosphere which surrounds our globe. What will be the result when it comes in contact with "the air we breathe?" The first stratum it strikes is so attenuated that its resistance is very slight. Yet the friction is great enough to instantly raise the temperature of the falling world. Within the hundredth part of a second the dense stratum of atmosphere has been encountered. The flight of the little world is now perceptibly checked, the result being a sudden firing of the mineral matters in the stone. There is an instan-taneous burst of light, and then we see the doomed representative of the mi-niture planets in all its meteoric splendor.
Possibly the streak of fire it leaves athwart the heavens will not appear to be more than a few hundred feet long.
Certainly it will be thin and short if the little world was not larger than a football—because it will be almost instantly consumed as soon as it strikes
the denser portions of the atmosphere.
On the other hand, if this world which has so suddenly come to an end was as large as a good sized barn when it started, fragments of it weighing from 10 to 1,000 pounds may reach the earth. It is from these fragments that we learn the shape and composition of the aerial phenomenon referred to as "shooting stars."—St. Louis Republic

Griff Parry reports that his brother, Robert, is rapidly gaining his former health and will soon return to this country. Griff is a little under the weather himself, but says he can't afford to be sick.

A tax of $2.50 on each $100 valuation in the town of Reno may encourage people to build this year. If Auditor Shearer had not exercised his veto power and the courts had not sustained him it would probably be a dollar higher. We have a dog tax of $2, but only $6 was turned into the treasury from that source last year. Why three or four persons should be compelled to pay that tax and all the others exempted is one of those mysteries which only the inner members of the ring can explain.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

THE TRIAL OF JOHN T. JONES—FIRST DAY

Preliminary Arrangements—Impaneling the Jury—Ten Secured and Two Men Wanted—New Venue Issued.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)

CARSON CITY, March 1, 1896. The U. S. District Court, Judge Hawley presiding, met this morning pursuant to adjournment.

As a preliminary the U. S. Circuit Court commenced session at 10 o'clock, Judge Hawley presiding.

The case of Foley vs. Hartley, involving the rights of the infant child in the case, was brought up and statements read. An order was made suspending action in the case until further order of the Court.

William Laurensen and W. T. Bonnell were admitted to practice in the courts of this State.

At 10:15 the District Court being declared in session for the trial of John T. Jones, the names of the venire of fifty jurors returned were called and all responded.

"Any of these jurors who considers that they have a legal excuse from serving in this case will now come forward and present the same," said his Honor. About a dozen rushed forward, but only seven were excused, one for sickness in family, and the others for over age, deafness, etc. Twelve were then called to the jury seats.

General Clarke for the prosecution made a brief statement of the case charging the defendant, John T. Jones, with the crime of larceny in taking and embezzling the sum of $23,000 from the United States Mint at Carson.

The examination and cross-examination of jurymen followed. Woodburn conducting for the defense, his colleagues, Coffin, Dennis and Torreyson & Summerfield being present also, U. S. District Attorney Jones temporarily absent.

The questions to the jurymen were principally what they had heard and read of the case, what newspapers, if they had formed or expressed an opinion or still had any, if they were members of any secret order to which defendant belonged, etc.

Of this panel of twelve, only four were accepted. Eight more were called and two accepted. Two more called resulted in two more being accepted, making ten in all. One more call exhausted the venire, only ten out of the fifty having been accepted, their names being as follows in order of acceptance:

Joise Lawson, J. L. McFarlin, Geo. A. Wilcox, Harrison Berry, J. B. Whitcomb, E. T. Morton, W. G. Elliot, D. C. Blythe, Walter Morton, John Hamm.

It was now 1 o'clock and two more persons being required to complete the panel, an open venire of twelve talesmen was ordered issued, returnable to-morrow at 10 o'clock, until which time the court adjourned.

THE TAX LEVY.

The Rate Fixed by the Board of Commissioners.

The Board of County Commissioners levied the county and town taxes yesterday for the current year. The Board at first levied a tax of 17 cents on each $100 valuation, of 42 cents for the general fund and 14 cents for indigent fund. Judge Webster and others appeared before the Board and made a plea in behalf of the schools, asking that the rate be increased. The Board reconsidered its action and changed the levy as follows:

State tax, 90 cents on each $100 valuation; general fund, 40 cents; indigent fund, 13 cents; general road fund, 10 cents; salary fund, 10 cents; agricultural bonds fund, 1 cent; general school fund, 20 cents. Total, $1.90 cents for State and county purposes.

In addition to the above the following taxes were levied in Reno: Incorporation, 70 cents on each $100 valuation; school redemption, 15 cents; State University, 10 cents, making State, county and municipal taxes in Reno, $2.85 on each $100 valuation.

Wardsworth in addition to the State and county taxes has 25 cents for fire and redemption funds, making the total levy in that town $2.15 on each $100 valuation.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

The Tax Levy Made and Other Business Transacted.

The Board of Commissioners met yesterday, present, Chairman Hyman, Commissioners Alt and Cobb, Clerk Porter and District Attorney Norcross.

The first business considered by the board was the tax levy for the present year, which is set out in a separate part of the paper.

W. T. Taylor appeared before the board and stated that he considered the food at the hospital good, that he was a patient there and had no reason to complain, that the table was well served and that the treatment was good.

The School Trustees, together with several taxpayers, appeared and asked that the tax levy for school purposes be fixed at 25 cents on the $100. After due consideration the rate was fixed at 20 cents.

The meeting was about the liveliest this Board has ever had, but finally all matters were arranged and then came the consideration of the regular monthly bills which took up the rest of the day.

HENRY—LEWIS.

A Quiet Wedding and Two Made One

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Stewart on Sunday evening. Mr. S. L. Henry of Wells, Fargo & Co. and Miss Julia M. Lewis, a niece of Dr. Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, being the principals in the happy event. Rev. Samuel Unsworth performed the ceremony, and the two young people whose hopes and happiness, their future and all that makes life dear to them and each dear to the other was pledged until death do them part. Whatever their future may be the promises given on Sunday evening will be the sweetest remembrance of their lives. No matter what the vicissitudes of life may be, there is no happier period to a young couple than their wedding day, no time in their lives when their hopes are higher and their prospects brighter.

Mr. S. L. Henry is well known in Reno, having been in the employ of W. F. & Co. for a number of years, and is a worthy young man. He is popular with his associates and acquaintances generally, and being a model young man he will make a model husband. His wife is to be congratulated, for she will find Sam Henry one of the best boys in the country as she gets to know him better, for this reporter has known him since his boyhood.

Mrs. Henry was born in Reno, and she is so well known, having grown to womanhood in this community, that no matter what we might say in her praise it would not have been half said. Sam might have traveled the world over and he would never have found a wife like her, and doubtless he is of that opinion. The Journal extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Henry, and they may be assured of its best wishes for their continued happiness and prosperity.

Hussey—Gordon.

A wedding took place Sunday at Carson in which a favorite son of Reno, Ralph Hussey, but now of Bakersfield, Cal., was the bridegroom and Margaret Gordon, one of Carson's daughters was the bride. They were married by Rev. F. L. Nash, and after an elaborate dinner came to Reno for a day or two's visit when they will leave for Bakersfield, where Mr. Hussey is engaged in business.

Ralph, as Mr. Hussey is familiarly known, has spent most of his life in Reno. Nearly everyone in the town knows him and all that know him are his friends. When he left Reno a little over a year ago all regretted his departure, for he had been here so long that he seemed almost necessary to the town.

We congratulate Mrs. Hussey and she perhaps has a right to feel a little proud over the fact that Ralph chose her for a wife when there were so many pretty girls in the old town where he had lived so long, but he doubtless saw something in her that was superior in his opinion to all others.

Mrs. Hussey is well-known in Carson and spoken of very highly and the fact that Ralph has chosen her for a life partner speaks volumes in her favor and no doubt but what he has selected a jewel.

The Journal wishes Mr. and Mrs. Hussey all the happiness possible and that their wedded life may be a never ending honeymoon.

Souza's Band Coming.

The appearance of Souza and his band at the Opera House for a grand concert on Wednesday evening will arouse a general interest in artistic and musical circles in this city. There is no need to enlarge upon the merits of Souza or his band. Their position is assured and their laurels have been honestly won. Souza comes to Reno with increased prestige. His band is now playing toward the close of the largest series of continuous concerts ever given in this country by an instrumental body, and the organization is playing in a form which is the natural result of such a series of lengthy concerts. Reserve seats at Lake's book store.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a Severe Kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called Kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50c. for large bottle. At Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

The Train Wreck.

Engine 1050 and ten freight cars jumped the track near Floriston yesterday. The train was east-bound and the accident was supposed to be caused by the spreading of the rails. No one was injured. Wrecking trains were soon on the ground and by evening all trains were moving.

New England Dinner.

The ladies of the Congregational Church will serve a New England Dinner on Thursday, March 5th, in the basement, from 4 to 7 P. M. Dinner 25 cents.

Lewis David and John Gardner appeared before Judge Mack at Carson yesterday morning on a charge of burglary. They were allowed to plead guilty to a charge of petit larceny and were sentenced to 90 days in the county jail. The boys were indicted by the Grand Jury for chicken stealing, but it was thought that taking into consideration their age, etc., the usual course would be too severe.

The Great Fire.

Seventeen years ago last Sunday morning ten blocks in the very heart of Reno were laid in ashes, and yesterday morning, March 24, was the real anniversary of the fire. On Sunday morning, March 2, 1879, shortly before 9 o'clock, the cry of fire was raised. The wind was blowing a gale, and in a few minutes after the alarm there was a raging, seething mass of flame from immediately back of the present Masonic Hall to the Depot Hotel that stood on the site where the depot now stands. Confusion reigned supreme. People did not know what to do or where to go, and while they wrung their hands fruitlessly, simply watched the fire flood wipe out the earnings and accumulation of years. A million and a half dollars worth of property was destroyed, and only the suburbs of the town were left to show where it had been.

Several lives were also lost, and on that Sunday afternoon seventeen years ago mothers led their children around, not knowing where they were to eat or sleep, and husbands and fathers wept bitter tears at the desolation.

Yet to-day Reno stands as the first city of the State, hardly a vestige remaining of that terrible conflagration. With our excellent fire service and the large number of solid brick buildings, it is not probable that the town will ever have such an experience again.

Archie Farrington arrived from the south last evening bound west. He had to be carried from one train to another on a mattress. He is almost helpless with inflammatory rheumatism.

L. T. Stevenson had the only cutter out last evening. He was enjoying the novelty of a sleigh ride, but Steve is from Kentucky and they don't have any snow there so he is excusable. The snow was only a half an inch deep, but Steve heard the jingle of the sleigh bells and that was sufficient.

A collision occurred on the Southern Pacific at Stockton yesterday morning. The Tracy freight was run into by the yard engine. George H. James, fireman, and brakeman Vizelica, were severely injured and both engines were demolished. Engineer Poole of the freight engine was knocked senseless, but not seriously injured. The fireman and brakeman were pinned between the engine and tender for half an hour before they could be extricated.
